Cadillac

Meeting of... Cadillac Owners!

Through all the higher phases of business and finance and industry, Cadillac is the overwhelming favorite.

It is not at all unusual, in fact, for a fine American corporation to have its entire board membership represented on the Cadillac owner list.

Needless to say, a motor car must offer many exceptional qualities in order to win the favor of so distinguished a group of motorists. And never have these been more clearly evident than they are today.

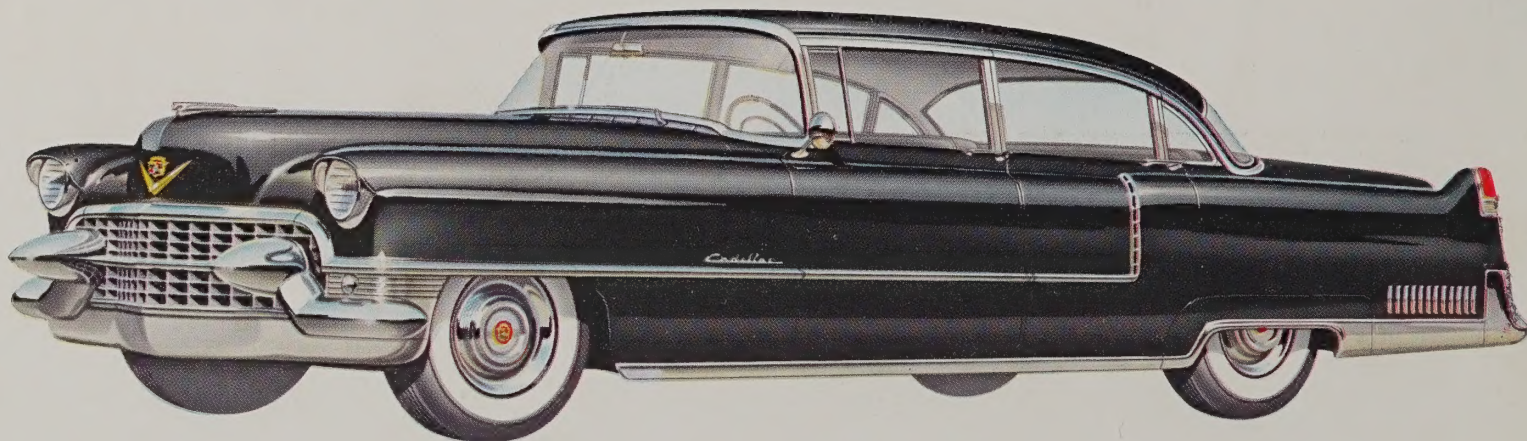

There is Cadillac's inspiring new beauty, for instance . . . its great distinction . . . its magnificent performance . . . and its brilliant luxury.

Of course, you don't have to be a member of a Board of Directors in order to enjoy a new Cadillac car.

In fact, a Cadillac is one of motordom's greatest values—the ideal car, economically, for a very wide group of American motorists.

Why not come in soon—and confirm this for yourself?

Tips on What's Tops at the Shops

REVIVING A FRENCH CUSTOM. Pot de creme sets to use for dessert custards in the French manner. In pink or yellow, the small china pots with their own lids are decorated in gold in Empire designs. A china tray matches. Bonwit Teller, 301 Worth Avenue.

A BOUQUET OF PRINTED SILK FABRICS. Flowered silks for Spring dressmaking in large and small patterns done in the perennially favored pastels and this season's full vibrant colors. Onondaga, Bianchini, and Goudon are among firms represented in the collection. The Fabric Center, 213 Clematis Street, West Palm Beach.

FULL LENGTH COATS. Always good, but being seen even more frequently this season. Mostly with buttons, the coats wrap around, and many have the popular pushed-up sleeves. Not as full as in past years, they come in all pastels. Especially lovely in 100% cashmere. Norman's 306 Clematis Street, West Palm Beach.

PINK AND YELLOW VELVET in narrow double panels to trim a luxurious negligee of silver silk brocade, lined in chiffon in the same pink and yellow. A fashion in which to look your loveliest for an evening at home. Elizabeth Arden, Worth Avenue, opposite the Everglades Club.

BENDEL'S MIDINETTES. Handmade flats made in Belgium. Canvas or leather in red, black, yellow, white, blue, or brown. These popular shoes are designed for every sports occasion. The canvas versions are with rope soles. Henri Bendel, 239 South County Road.

BROCADE FOR EVENING in a three-piece suit that goes everywhere for dinner and afterward. A lovely multi-colored floral design on white satin skirt and jacket worn with a mat jersey blouse. The skirt is full, and the jacket is actually a bolero with tapering long sleeves. Ruth Hilliard, 245 Worth Avenue.

A GALA BALL GOWN for the most formal occasions. A lovely brocade with pale greens and blues embroidered on a rich cream satin. The gown is strapless with a shaped bodice, and sweeps regally to the floor with a slightly greater fullness at the back. Hattie Carnegie, 318 Worth Avenue.

MAGNIFICENT SHAWL COLLAR of purest white mink highlighting the heavy yellow satin of a torso line evening coat. The coat is combined in the costume look for evening with a gala bouffant ball gown in white and palest absinthe and is appropriately named Absinthe. Coat and gown are Martha originals. Martha, 230 Worth Avenue.

PINK BOW TIE AND CUMMERBUND worn with a black dinner coat in Saks Fifth Avenue's famous Pesante' silk in a recent fashion show. Tie and cummerbund are in crisp cotton pique. Also in blue and grey. Saks Fifth Avenue Men's Shop, 302 Worth Avenue.

TWISTED CABLE STITCH hand knitted in a scoop neck pull-over trimmed in a single strand of rhinestones and pearls. Just right for cocktails in a number of colors. Beatrice Morgan, 235 Worth Avenue.

SHEER ORGANZA PRINTED short dinner dress. Multi-color flowers highlighted with paillettes on a white background. The design is the new overblouse, sleeveless, and combined with a full skirt. The colors are bright, accented with green velvet. McDonalds, 116 North County Road.

EGYPTIAN GOLD JEWELRY by Moselle. Bracelets, earrings, necklaces, and pins in baroque loops of gold combined with oversize tear drop pearls. Mary Stuart, 218-B Worth Avenue.

FOR COCKTAILS AT HOME. Flat heeled Capizio's that will be conversation pieces for every guest who enters your gates. Wonderful with the currently favored toreador pants. Included in a wide selection of colors and fabrics are black velvets embroidered with a straw butterfly, and several silver and gold kids. Kornhauser, 311 Worth Avenue.

RAINBOW LACE FOR EVENING. Lace shaded in rainbow pastels in the skirt of a short evening dress which catches the light as you dance. The bodice is flesh tulle and strapless with an attached shrug which frames the shoulders. Razook's, At The Breakers Hotel.

THE ENSEMBLE LOOK in a girl's cotton dress and sweater. In white with red and blue clowns applied on the bodice and skirt of the dress, and the same design knitted into the accompanying cardigan. Also other colors and designs, or special designs made to order. Estelle Parker, 244 Worth Avenue.

CLAIRE POTTER does an ensemble in French blue linen. A one-piece sleeveless dress with sewn-down, rounded collar, fashion accented with a full matching full length coat with split panel hem line and three quarter raglan cuffed sleeves. Ruth Chagnon, 325 Worth Avenue.

STRIPES SHADING FROM BURNT ORANGE to yellow in a two-piece silk taffeta cocktail and casual dinner dress. Full skirted with three quarter sleeves and a cummerbund, the costume is in the shirtmaker tradition with its special interest in the coloring and use of the striped fabric. Winona Hunt, 4 Via Mizner.

INDIAN TUSSAH SILK. Men's sports jacket in this beautiful imported silk. In natural color with a rough texture. The jacket is three buttoned with center vent. Brooks Men's Shop, 224-A Worth Avenue.

THE COSTUME LOOK so fashionable this season in women's clothes is seen in harmonized evening accessories for men. A pleated bosom evening shirt in a sheer Swiss fabric is embroidered in small dots in maroon. In the same color are shirt studs, cummerbund or "cummervest," and tie. Sulka, 305 Worth Avenue.

SHEER SILK IN RED AND WHITE print of the most delicate design. Brigrance uses the fabric in a daytime frock with mildly flaring skirt. The bodice of the dress is of special interest for the horizontal bands of gathering, giving a soft look flattering to all figures. George and Mary Shop, 107 North County Road.

The background of the advertisement is a textured, light-colored surface with a grid of dark, diagonal lines. Scattered across this grid are numerous diamond-shaped icons of varying sizes, each with a starburst effect radiating from it. Several larger, detailed images of diamond jewelry are also present: a large round brilliant cut diamond at the top center, a large pear-shaped diamond on the left, a large emerald-cut diamond at the top left, and a large heart-shaped diamond on the right. Smaller diamond shapes are interspersed throughout the grid. The word "Cartier" is written in a large, elegant, cursive script in the upper right quadrant. Below it, the names of several cities are printed in a clean, sans-serif font, each positioned near a diamond-shaped icon: "New York", "Paris", "Caracas", "London", "Palm Beach", "Monte Carlo", and "Cannes".

NOT LONG AGO I drove from the state capital to my home at Silver Springs, Florida. In other words, I left a city called Tallahassee; crossed the Wacissa River; drove through the town of Waukeenah; crossed Welaunee Creek then crossed in rapid succession the Aucilla, the Econfinia, and a tributary of the Fenholloway; and ate lunch on the banks of the Suwannee. Then I drove on through Alachua; eventually crossed Payne's Prairie; passed Micanopy, and so to Silver Springs, which lies between the city of Ocala and a river known as the Ocklawaha!

Florida fishermen talk about the big bass of the Withlacoochee River; the blue-gills in the Pithlachascotee; or the shell-crackers of Lake Tsala Apopka. Hunters mention the deer in the Choctawhatchee swamps; the turkey in the Chipola River country; the hog hunting near the Apalachicola; or the quail shooting around Wewahitchka. Probably every sportsman has remarked at least once on the strange names of Florida rivers and towns.

Many of the names, of course, are from some Indian language, but not always Seminole. As a matter of fact, there was no such group as "Seminole" until the Eighteenth Century, when various bands of Indians moved to Florida from Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina. There were Indians in the state before the Seminole, and some of their names persist although in most cases the meanings are not known.

When the first Spanish explorers reached Florida, they found several large Indian tribes or nations. In south-western Florida, from Tampa Bay through the Keys, were the Calusa. Along the Indian River lived the Ais. In the Miami region were the Tekesta. Throughout Central Florida were the Timucua, not a single tribe but a number of different tribal groups. In the northern portion of the state, at the base of the Panhandle, were the Apalachee. Just west of the Apalachee were the Apalachicola and the Chatot; and in the western end of the Panhandle lived the Pensacola, who were affiliated with the Choctaw. In addition, there were many small tribes or bands, scattered here and there in the state. These early inhabitants of Florida were exterminated by epidemic diseases contracted from the whites, and by constant warfare with the Spanish, the English, and others. In some cases their languages were never recorded, but a few of their names have come down to us.

"Miami" appears to have been a Ca-lusa word meaning "wide"; the Calusa applied this name to what is now Lake Okeechobee. "Tampa" was originally a Calusa town. The name "Calusa" was corrupted by the Spaniards to "Carlos," and this altered by the English to "Charlotte"; and so we have Charlotte Harbor in Charlotte County. "Ocala" is from Ocale, a Timucua town. Aucilla was a Timucua settlement, also. The Myakka River and Port Mayaca seem to bear Timucua names; and Tomoka Creek, in Volusia County, is a variant spelling of "Timucua Creek."

The Apalachicola River is named for the Indians who lived there; the word signifies "people living on the other shore." Choctawhatchee probably meant "river of the Chatot", and did not have reference to the Choctaw at all. Pensacola means "hair people" in Choctaw, and referred to the fact that the Pensacola Indians wore their hair long, sometimes down to the ground. (The Pensacola spoke Choctaw). Okaloosa, a county in North Florida, is Choctaw for "black water." Lochloosa, a lake in Alachua County, is a perfectly good Choctaw phrase meaning "black terrapin"; but no one has explained why a Choctaw name should crop up so far south in the state. Some claim Lochloosa is Scotch, for "loch" is Scotch for "lake," and many towns in Central Florida bear Scotch names.

By the Eighteenth Century, the original inhabitants of Florida had vanished, except for a few scattered remnants. Up in Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, however, the Indians were more successful in resisting the white invaders. In this region, many scattered tribes were loosely organized into a confederacy, dominated by the Creek or Muskogee Indians. During the 1700's and early 1800's, bands of Indians left the confederacy and pushed down into the wild, uninhabited country of Florida. The Creeks had a name for people who live in the wild; it was "Sem-in-o-le." From this we get the word Seminole.

Two different languages were spoken among the Seminoles. Some of these Indians spoke Creek; or Muskogee as it is known; others spoke what is now called Mikasuki. (Lake Miccosukee, northeast of Tallahassee, received its name from the Mikasuki Seminoles who lived in its vicinity). The Seminoles applied names to various lakes, rivers and other natural features of Florida. When the white people began settling in the state, they retained many Seminole place names. However, they often mispronounced the Indian words very badly, and in some cases we cannot be sure of translation.

Here are a few Seminole place names and their original meanings — most of them are in the Creek language, somewhat mispronounced: Allapattah, alligator; Apopka, potato eating place; Bithlo, a dugout canoe; Chassahowitzka, hanging pumpkins; Chattahoochee, marked rocks; Chokoloskee, deserted house; Chuluota, fox den; Econfina, earth bridge (natural bridge); Efaw, dog; Fenholloway, high foot-log; Hatchineha, cypress tree; Illahaw, orange; Istachatta, red men; Loxahatchee, terrapin river; Narcoossee, a black bear; Okaloocoochee, little bad water; Ocklawaha, boggy; Panasoffkee, deep valley; Tallahassee, old town; Tsala Apopka, bass eating place; Wacahoota, cow barn; Weekiwachee, little spring (of water); Wekiwa, spring; Welaunee, yellow water; Wewahitchka, water view; Yalaha, orange.

Several Florida names end in -sassa. This Seminole-Creek word means, literally, "some there." Wacasassa means "some cows there," or, we might say, "cow place." Thonotosassa means "flint place." Homosassa is generally translated "pepper place"; but the present-day Seminoles tell me that the original form of the name meant "whiskey place."

A few names are in the Mikasuki language. The best known is Okeechobee, "big water."

In some cases, the early white settlers just couldn't pronounce the Seminole names at all, and instead translated them. Thus, Wewahaiyayaki, "shining water," became Crystal River; Thlathlo-popka-hachi, "fish eating river," became Fisheating Creek; Talak-chupco-hachi, "long beans river," became Peas Creek and finally Peace River; Yaha-hachi, "wolf river," became Wolf Creek.

Quite a few places are named for the Seminoles or their leaders. Thus we have Seminole County and Osceola County. The town of Aripeka, in Pasco County, is named for Apayaka, one of the last Seminole leaders. Emathla, in Marion County, probably was named for Tsala Emathla ("Charlie Emathla") a Seminole who was killed by Osceola. The word Emathla is not a name but a war title, meaning vice-chief or deputy. Micco, a town in Brevard County, means "chief." Micanopy, in Alachua County, originally meant "top chief"; it was the title of an important Seminole leader. Payne's Prairie, also in Alachua County, was named for King Payne, an early Seminole chief.

There are many more Seminole place names in Florida. There are also names in other Indian languages — names imported by the white people even though the Indians never lived in the state. For example: Cassadaga, from a town in New York, originally an Iroquois word; Conasauga, Hiwassee, and Ocoee, names of Cherokee origin; Kalamazoo, a city in Michigan and a tiny community in Volusia County, Florida, with an Ojibway Indian name; and Minnehaha (a lake in Lake County), the Sioux Indian heroine of Longfellow's poem, "Song of Hiawatha." We even have a community called Petaluma (Dade County); this was originally a town in California, with a name derived from the language of the Coastal Miwok Indians! Shasta (Levy County) is another California name, this time from the language of the Klamath Indians.

Many of our lakes, rivers, and communities are named for Indian tribes: Catawba, Euchee, Erie, Mohawk, Muscogee, Secotan, Seneca, and Shawnee. Of this lot, only the Euchee and Muscogee ever lived in Florida.

Geographic names can be controversial subjects. Unfortunately, many of them were "translated" long ago by people who really knew very little of languages and who made some serious blunders. The erroneous translations have been handed down and are often faithfully believed by local residents. It is always wisest to go back to old charts and documents, and see how the names were originally spelled. Most of them have changed greatly, sometimes out of all recognition. For example, many Seminole names have been altered to such a degree that they are no longer meaningful to the Indians themselves.

Take the name Okefenokee, the big swamp on the Georgia-Florida border. Believe it or not, this name has been rendered at least 89 different ways in the last 190 years. Some of the variant spellings are Owaquaphenogaw, Onoquaphenoga, Quakaphonoke, and Efinoke. Way back in the latter 1700's, however, the name was spelled something like Ekanfanoka or Ecunfinocau; and from these we can determine the meaning. The Creek word "ekan" or "ecun" meant "earth"; and "finoka" or "fenoke" meant "shaking." In Creek, the adjective comes after the noun it modifies; and so the original meaning was 'shaking earth.' This is an appropriate name for a region of bogs and swamps.

Sometimes legends grow up (or are deliberately invented) around unexplained Indians names. Thus, residents of Pasco County have heard that the Pithlachascotee River was named for the Calusa Indian lovers, Pithla and Chasco; as a matter of fact, the name is Seminole and means "where dugout canoes are made." Many people in Sarasota have been told that their city was named for De Soto's daughter, Sara. (De Soto had no such daughter!) Actually, Sarasota seems to have been an old Calusa name for a point of rocks near present-day Crescent Beach. The early Spanish explorers picked up the Indian name, inscribed it on their maps, but failed to record its meaning.

In Hillsborough County is a town called Wimauma. Students of Indian languages have tried without success to translate the name. However, according to local residents, "Wimauma" was coined in 1903 from the names of three ladies — Willie, Maud, and Mary — by taking the first two letters of each name. In this case, local tradition solves a problem which otherwise would baffle the linguist and historian.

In Indian River County is the community of Wabasso, another puzzling name. It seems to be just Ossabaw spelled backwards. (Ossabaw is an island and a sound in Georgia.)

DELRAY BEACH, FLORIDA

There are plenty of European and even Asiatic names in Florida: Eau Gallie is French; Punta Gorda, Boca Grande, Islamorada, and Naranja are Spanish; Mandalay (in Taylor County) is a city and district in Burma, and the word is from ancient Sanskrit; Sumatra (in Liberty County) is an island of the East Indies, another name from Sanskrit. And we also have Lutz, Masaryktown, Gotha, Killarney, Interlachen, Inverness, Boulogne, Italia, New Berlin, Hibernia, Agricola, Altschul, Venice, Genoa, Mecca, Geneva, Lucerne, Andalusia, Bagdad, Dublin, Tasmania, Antioch, Sans Souci, Copan, Valpariso, Bohemia, and a host of other imported names too numerous to discuss.

Many Florida names are very colorful, and some of them must have been applied humorously. Among the more interesting are Bean City and Muck City in Palm Beach County; Christmas in Orange County; Red Level in Citrus County; Howey-in-the-Hills and Lady Lake in Lake County; Frostproof and West Frostproof in Polk County; Cocoa and Angel City in Brevard County; Venus in Highlands County; Perky, Sugarloaf Key, and Ramrod Key in Monroe County; Yukon and Hercules in Duval County; Half Moon, Guss,

An idyllic setting amid the lush green beauty of a Florida garden, with the inviting lily pond framed by a gorgeous tropical background.

Mutual Junction, and River Styx in Alachua County; Needles Eye in Marion County; Hero in Nassau County; Floweree in Hendry County; Fruita in Martin County; Eleven Mile, Bloody Bluff, and Old Woman's Bluff in Franklin County; Bamboo in Sumter County; Pine Log in Bay County; Boggy in Escambia County; Mossy Head in Walton County; Upthegrove in Okeechobee County; Padlock in Suwannee County; Mickieorr in Manatee County; and Lulu in Columbia County. We also have Two Egg in Jackson County; Coot Bay and Flamingo in Monroe County; Dogtown in Gadsden County; Tiger Bay and Bluebird in Polk County; Deer Land in Okaloosa County; Horseshoe in Dixie County; Bear Head in Walton County; Bee Ridge in Sarasota County; Hen Scratch in Highlands County; and Yankee town in Levy County. I wonder who named so many southern towns after varmints!

Down in Manatee County are two little communities, about three miles apart, called Rye and Manhattan. No doubt a fisherman named these.

Cat Cay

THE CAT KEY CLUB in the Bahamas, long famous for its exclusive and distinguished members and widely reputed to be a millionaire's hideaway, is happily being discovered by many young people to be well within their vacation price range.

So many new friends — as well as the old ones — have flown or cruised into Cat Cay that the management glowingly reports this season, which is now at its brilliant height, the most successful in Cat Cay history.

A great number of attractive young couples are finding that Cat Cay has everything to offer in the way of diversion, excitement, beauty, the finest of fishing, luxury at reasonable cost, deep — bone-deep — relaxation, as well as wonderful company.

Ruth and Alan McCray came all the way from Burbank, Calif. and Ann and Warren Doble came from North Hollywood to visit on the magic island and to form such strong and lasting friendships with other newcomers like Betty and John Olwin (he is a prominent Chicago surgeon and she is a darling! So excited over her first catch of a big white marlin) Corky and John Hartman Jr., of Strasburg, Pa., and the beautiful Carolyn Drick and the handsome John Drick of Winnetka, Ill. All these gay, sparkling young people have had such fun that they are already planning a reunion together for next year at Cat Cay.

Among the other first timers visiting Cat Cay who are so enchanted that they firmly intend to become habitués are the D. Mead Johnson's (he is executive vice president of Mead Johnson and Co. of Evansville, Ind.) This captivating couple came to Cat Cay after attending Mardi Gras at New Orleans and did nothing but rest for the first three days: Evelyn and Wesley Hamilton are here for the first time, Wes is vice president of International Steel, also of Evansville and Evelyn is one of the General Foods Igleharts: Doctor and Mrs. Martin Quirk of Rumson, N. J., Evelyn and Ralph Smith; Mr. Smith is president of the Ralph Smith Lumber Company in Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Clark, also of Kansas City and Doctor and Mrs. Seeley O. Mudd who came to Cat Cay at the suggestion of long time members who are also here, Mr. and Mrs. John McCone of San Marino, California.

But small wonder that everyone has fun and loves Cat Cay: Every evening delightful private parties flourish and all guests, home owners and accredited yachtsmen are invited to these parties. The simple fact that you are on the Island is sufficient guaranty that you are nice people.

One of the gay parties was given by those very popular Island residents, Mary and Ferdinand Eberstadt, their son, Frederick, his recent bride, Isobel (her father is Ogden Nash of rhyming fame) and the Eberstadt's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Connell.

The party, which started at high noon, was held around the wide deck of the Club Pool. An obligingly bright sun shone down on guests seated about rainbow-hued umbrella-topped tables. Those who had enough sunburn for the time being, sat at tables under the beautiful, brand new shelter.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rice Wasey, beloved owners of Cat Cay, issued invitations for a party to be held on the evening of Feb. 27 at their beautiful home, Second House. Mrs. Wasey who is an expert on antiques receives many compliments on the fine collection which she has collected and imported and which furnish her home.

Theiline and Paul Pigott, who used to have to spend five long days and nights traveling from their home in Seattle, Wash., in order to reach their favorite winter destination, were hosts to more than sixty guests at their Island home, Blue Star, the evening of Feb. 26th.

Brenda and Benjamin Heyer of Greenwich, Conn., entertain graciously, informally and continuously in their appropriately named home, Little Paradise.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKinley Bryan of Greensboro, N. C., have asked for a date in the crowded social schedule so that they may have a party at their Club Cottage, the very modern and beautifully appointed, Kent House. Kathleen is noted for her tremendous charm and personality.

Ex Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey flew into Cat Cay on Feb. 25th to join his friends Elmer H. Bobst, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brown and Mrs. E. M. Vance of Montclair, Spring Lake and East Orange, N. J., and to participate with them in the happiness always rampant on Cat Cay. Mr. Bobst is uncertain about when he will be able to tear himself and his splendid 82-foot yacht "Alisa IV" away from Cat Cay.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiting Willauer, he is U. S. Ambassador to Honduras, are stopping at Cat Cay aboard the Yacht "Bonnie." With Mr. Willauer are Mr. and Mrs. Jules Thebaud and Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Larson of New York City.

Among the many old timers of the Island who are here and who contribute greatly to the festive life of Cat Cay are:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Schmon, of Ontario; Mr. and

Mrs. Arthur E. Pew, Jr., of Philadelphia and Bryn Mawr; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mercer of Rumson, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Badenhause of Short Hills, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smithers of New Canaan, N. J., and New York City; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Matthaui of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Crawford and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Archie T. Colwell of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Siragusa of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears of Greenwich, Conn.; Mr. John B. Ford, Jr., of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Natham M. Ayers of Sedgefield, High Point, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. William

Godsey Jr. of Brunswick, N. J.; (Bill Godsey by the way has been distinguishing himself at Skeet—two 25's in one morning—and at fishing, he has really been bringing in the kill, including a 384 pound blue marlin); Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Cannon of Saint Davids, Pa., with their guests, the Robert Seiffert's and the William Gages; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnhart of Englewood, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Baker Barnhart of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Austin L. Smithers of New York; Mr. J. W. Pierce of East Millstone, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Church of Boston; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. the daughter and son-in-law of the Wendell W. Andersons. The Anderson's expect to be in Cat Cay soon).

Pirates Cove Harbour of Cat Cay in the Bahamas is a spectacular sight as more and more yachts continue to pull into the docks or anchor out, almost as though a great regatta were about to begin.

Many of these pleasure craft berth here throughout the season: There is Louis R. Wasey's all-aluminum boat, "The Gay Jane"; Arthur E. Pew, Jr.'s, magnificent auxiliary ketch, "Mercury V" of Philadelphia; Ross D. Siragusa's "Sizi III"; The Henry D. Mercer's yacht, "Bluejacket" and their fishing boat, "Skipper"; The Fred Eberstadt's "Wild Goose"; Carl Badenhausen's chartered, "The Horse Conch"; The Robert E. Barbour's, "Buttons"; the Harold Youngren's, "Taurus" and Cat Cay's own old faithful fishing boat from which many a spectacular catch has been made, "The Boca Chica."

These are all usually with us and make a beautiful picture but the visiting yachts with the national flags and yacht club burgees flying are a thrilling sight and do add splendence.

The "Highlander" belonging to Senator M. Forbes of New York City is here with his guests, Mr. and Mrs. Prew Mellick and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Fowler, Far Hills, N. J.

The yacht "Bonnie" with Mr. and Mrs. Whiting Willauer—he is U. S. Ambassador to Honduras—cruised in with Mr. and Mrs. Jules Thebaud and Mr. and Mrs. Royce E. Larsen aboard.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Langley of New York City are here on the "Cotton" and Mr. and Mrs. James Barker of Nashua, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Drake, of Rye, N. H., are on the "Susabelle B."

Charles Gibson of Greenville, Mich. and his cousin, Frank Gibson of Greenville, Pa., and Coconut Grove came in for a few days on the trim new "Sally Forth" then left for Andros and Nassau and—as though magnet drawn—returned to Cat Cay.

Mr. McKnight of Gorce Circle, Miami Beach and Mr. James Hayes of Lake Shore Drive, Chicago Ill., paid Cat Cay a too brief visit on the "Scotchie" at the same time as the "Bontina" with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perina, of Wellesley, Mass., and Dr. and Mrs. Wrang of Middletown, Conn. aboard.

The 67 foot "Serenio III" belonging to L. M. Miller joined the pleasure squadron in these clear green and blue waters, with owner and party enjoying the life on shore at Cat Cay.

The streamlined, "Magnamar" belonging to the Magnavox Company of Fort Wayne, Ind., is a frequent and a welcome sight as she brings gay guests to stay for long intervals at the Island.

There are excellent docking facilities at Cat Cay for the big yachts and yachtsmen take advantage of this fact to berth here for many days at a time. The "Dragon Lady" belonging to Mr. William A. Parker of Boston; Mr. Louis Perine's "Bontina," Framington, Mass.; Admiral R. S. Berkey's "Surigao" of Lyme, Conn., the "Uniwashco V", of New Jersey; John Walton's "Tritona" of Pittsburgh, Pa., these and many, many more, coming in, going out, day after day, all contribute to the interesting and amazing life at the island of Cat Cay.

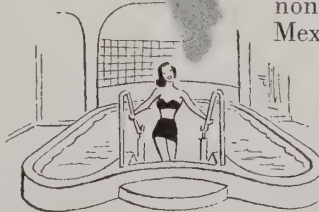

The new Yacht Club, which has been entirely rebuilt nears completion and is now open and very active. The excellent facilities of this favorite "port of call" are open to Cat Key Club members, their guests and to all accredited visiting yachtsmen.

Life AMONG the PALMS

PALM BEACH has enjoyed a wonderful season. The weather for the most part has been delightful. The flowers and plants have been at their best. The lawns have looked their greenest. There have been many visitors to the resort, and many parties given. Romances have budded and weddings have taken place in our midst.

There have been several weddings. One was that of lovely Miss Frances Bailey Pryor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Pryor Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., and Hobe Sound, and Ensign Robert Dunn Haws, son of Mrs. Henry E. Haws of Greenwich, Conn., and the late Mr. Haws, which took place in Christ Memorial Chapel in Hobe Sound on March 12.

James Melton sang the Lord's Prayer at the wedding.

The maid of honor was Miss Nancy Hogan, of Greenwich, Conn., the matron of honor was Mrs. Lowell Thomas Jr., of Princeton, N. J., and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Carl Woese, of Rochester, N. Y., sister of the groom, Miss Jean Milliken, of Kingston, N. Y., Miss Jean Owen, of Biltmore Forest, N. C., Mrs. Taylor Pryor, sister-in-law of the bride, of Pensacola, Florida. Dorothy Dale Swift, of Biltmore, N. C., was flower girl. Mr. Gilbert M. Grosvenor, of Washington, D. C. was the best man, and the bride's three brothers, Lt. Taylor A. Pryor, of Pensacola, Florida, Lt. Samuel F. Pryor, 3d, of Alexandria, Va. and Laurence A. Pryor, of Greenwich, Conn., Charles Neave, New Canaan, Conn. Henry H. Enos, of Greenwich, Conn., George R. Swift, of Biltmore, N. C., Richard O. Carey, of Waterbury, Conn. Glen B. Miller Jr. of Princeton, N. J. and Carl R. Woese, of Rochester, N. Y., were the ushers.

The bride's wedding gown was of Swiss embroidered organdy with full bouffant skirt and she wore a Duchesse cap of Swiss organdy edged with pearls and a finger tipped illusion veil. Her wedding bouquet was of Eucharist lilies and stephanotis.

Following the wedding ceremony which was performed by Rev. Robert B. Appleyard, a reception was held in the Jupiter Island Club Golf House in Hobe Sound, after which the young couple left on a wedding trip to Nassau, B. W. I.

They will reside in Pensacola, Florida, where Ensign Haws is stationed with the United States Navy. The bride's brother Lt. Taylor A. Pryor and his wife, the former Miss Karen Wylie, daughter of writer Philip Wylie, also reside in Pensacola.

Mrs. Eleanor Anthony Tenney was married to Prince Levan Dadiani at the bride's home on South County Road, and Vice Admiral Doyle, U.S.N. (retired) and Mrs. Cecile Erda Parsons, were also wed in a candle-lighted service in Admiral Doyle's home.

Miss Letitia Lawrence, of Great Neck, L. I., and Palm Beach and Mr. Ralph Raymond Estey were married in the First Presbyterian Church in Lake Worth and are residing at the Poray Apartments on South Ocean Boulevard until they go to New York later where they will make their home. Mr. Estey is president of Estey Brothers Steel Fabrication Corp. of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Hickox, of 10 Gracie Square, and Old Westbury, L. I., announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarane Barker Hickox, to Mr. Walter L. Ross, 2d, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Ross, of 110 Clarke Ave., Palm Beach, and Cleveland, Ohio. A May wedding is planned for this young couple.

There have been many interesting guests in the resort among them Mr. Charles MacArthur, the eminent playwright, and Mrs. MacArthur, who is Miss Helen Hayes, regarded universally as "The First Lady of the American Theater." Other famous personages who have been here during the late Winter season were Miss Merle Oberon, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gage (Esther Williams) Miss Sonja Henie, the film and skating star, Miss Eva Gabor and her mother, Mrs. Jolie Gabor, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rothschild (Vera-Ellen), Miss Ginny Sims, Pat O'Brien and Mrs. O'Brien, small Jenny Hecht, who played with Miss Helen Hayes in "Mrs. McThing," at the Palm Beach Playhouse, Mr. Phil Regan and Mrs. Regan, Mr. and Mrs. James Cagney, Mrs. Cobina Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Presbrey (Martha Roundtree) and their young daughter who is named for her famous mother. The latter threesome have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Max Pray at their home on El Vellido Way.

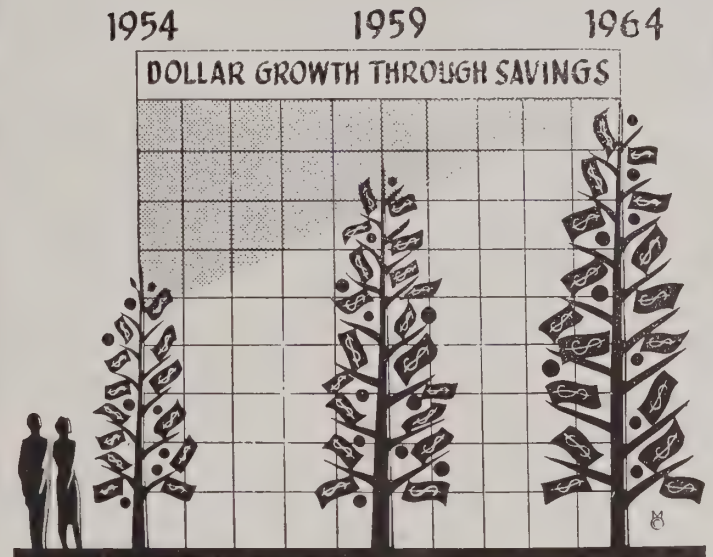

The Duchess of Windsor arrived from New York to join the Duke of Windsor who preceded her to Palm Beach and they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Young at "The Towers."

Mr. Raymond C. Schindler, the famous investigator, and Mrs. Schindler, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Frank Black at their home on South Ocean Boulevard. Mrs. Robert Considine, wife of the well known columnist, has been visiting Mrs. Wilfred Cecil Rigg and her mother, Mrs. John T. H. Mitchell at the latter's ocean front villa.

Other interesting guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Max Don Howell, of New York City who spent a few days with Mrs. John H. Perry Sr., at her home on Sea View Avenue.

"TIME AND A HALF" for the Executor...?

No — even though he's worked all day at his own job, and is now working into the night at the job of settling the estate of a friend, who named him his executor...

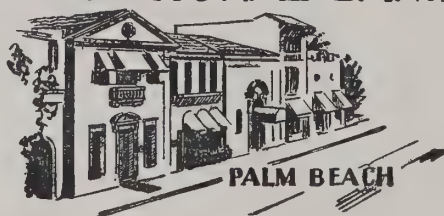

He won't be able to go on like this much longer. He'll be forced to make a choice — to neglect either his own affairs, or the estate's. There are too few hours in the day for both jobs—and he has to sleep sometimes...

Don't force a friend to make this choice — for his sake, as well as your family's! Executorship is our business, and we'll be glad to talk to you and your lawyer at any time.

THE Palm Beach Biltmore

LIFE AT THE BILTMORE this season has truly surpassed the dreams of all the delightful guests who were particularly unanimous in their praise of the exotic new Florida Room, this golden isle's glittering new cocktail rendezvous.

They came, they saw and were conquered by the Florida Room's lush beauty — the only cocktail lounge offering continuous dance music during the cocktail hour to such dance bands as Walter Feldkamp and his society orchestra and Julio Torres and his rhumba band. Enhancing the cocktail hour were those inimitable international dancing stars, Wynters and Angeline who thrice weekly presented a series of creative new dances in addition to directing the weekly Champagne Hour and the rollicking "Fun Nights."

A nice feature of the Biltmore's Florida Room is its great appeal to family parties and one of the most colorful with a sentimental note attached was that given for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dougherty of White Plains, New York, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Dougherty is on the board of directors of the Waldorf-Astoria and members of the family present were Mr. and Mrs. John Horsman and their children John Jr. and Jane, and Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp with their daughter Linda. Mrs. Horsman and Mrs. Sharp are daughters of the Doughertys.

A high spot of the occasion was surprise presentation of a golden cake with fifty candles specially baked by Chef Pettengill's staff.

A trio of ladies who come annually to the Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel are Mrs. Harry Bijur of New York, and Mrs. Mable Kempe and Mrs. Archie Kessler, both of Allenhurst, N. J.

RAY HOWARD

Deal, N. J., visitors on the pool terrace of the Palm Beach Biltmore are Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Johnson who have entertained extensively at cocktail parties in the Florida Room of the hotel.

Marr, Mrs. Phillip Rudden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schroeder and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bender.

Interesting visitors from the Lone Star State of Texas who flew up to Palm Beach via their private plane for a stay at the Biltmore were the incentive for a gay round of festivities with the Holland Smiths of New York as hosts. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wray of Forth Worth and Houston residents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Willard M. Johnson.

Setting new records in several respects this year was the Palm Beach Biltmore "race special" which besides carrying the largest number of racing fans down to Hialeah in its five years of operation had more royal personages and notables in the world of racing aboard.

Noted in the party of Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, internationally known as the dean of racing women were the Queen's Trainer, Capt. Cecil Boyd Rochfort of London who went down with a royal Netherlander — Jonkheer W. Gevaerts Van Nulan of the Hague.

Other titled nobility enjoying the speedy comfortable ride to Hialeah were Lord Carnavon, the Earl and Countess of Sefton and Count and Countess Jean de la Valdene who usually went down with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guest and Mrs. Winston Guest.

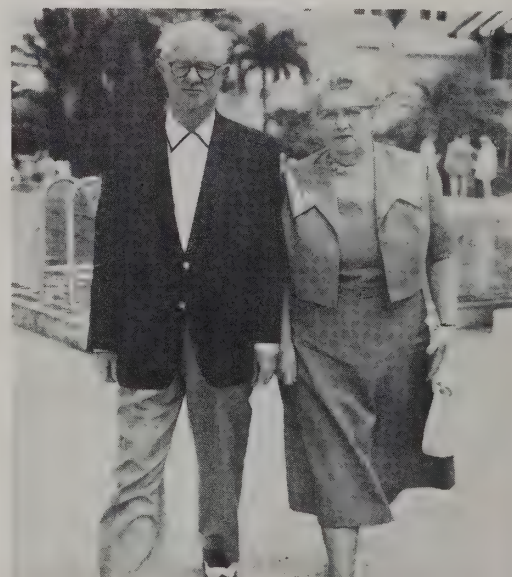

Those who love April's sunshine and brilliant blue skies will welcome the news that this year the Biltmore will remain open until April 15.

Following its closing many of the guests will be making reservations for seasonal stays at the Monmouth Hotel, Spring Lake, landmark of the Jersey coast where general manager James J. Farrell of the Biltmore holds forth during the summer months. Resident manager Felix Standen and reservations manager Joseph P. Redden will transfer their hotel talents along with other key executives to this impressive Jersey resort.

PONTE VEDRA

PONTE VEDRA'S CHARM has been reported afar and each season brings new visitors to her shore. One recent and dazzling caller was a flamingo, which took a calm inspection of the resort from the lagoon, much to the delight of camera fiends as well as bird lovers. No one knew whether this rare pink guest was a prospective colonist or a fugitive from Hialeah, but all agreed it made a fine sight.

A string of balmy days has kept the golf course humming with activity. Mr. A. C. Beane, an annual visitor from New York City, was here with a group of friends, Messrs. C. H. Sayre, W. H. Dunkak, Robert Rooke, Arthur Landon, James Thompson, Herbert Melcher, Robert A. Magowan, Homer Hargrave and Russell Stern, all of New York.

The Ladies Golf Championship Tournament was held and caused a great deal of excitement. Mrs. Norvin Veal carded a 91 to win medalist honors. Mrs. Robert White, of Barrington, Ill., who is spending the winter in the Rucker Cottage, won the championship after a tough competition with runner-up Mrs. Charles B. Curtis, of Litchfield, Conn., and Ponte Vedra.

Mrs. Curtis, who is the dean of local lady golfers, is famous for playing twenty-seven holes of golf a day, rain or shine, and confessed, to everybody's delight, that the day of her match with Mrs. White was also her forty-fourth wedding anniversary! She is a source of inspiration and sportsmanship to the women of the Association. Mrs. White is a member of Barrington Hills Country Club and Mrs. Curtis belongs to Litchfield Country Club as well as Ponte Vedra.

The first flight of this tournament was won by Mrs. Ding Butler, of the colony, with Mrs. Allan B. Laing of Connecticut and Ponte Vedra runner-up. Mrs. James G. Stillwell of Ponte Vedra was winner of the second flight and Mrs. W. Gwyn Thomas was runner-up.

The American Drug Manufacturers Association held a meeting at The Inn and golfing daily from this group were Mr. Earl Burbidge, Mr. Fred Hadley, Mr. George Hazel, Mr. Jim Rice and Mr. Irwin Winter.

Ponte Vedra's own song bird, Mrs. Charles Hoffman, sings for a group of friends in the Cactus Room of the Inn. She is accompanied by Bruce Thomas and his orchestra. Prior to coming south Mrs. Hoffman had her own television show in New York City.

Mrs. Edwin T. Kimbrough and her daughter, Kimberly, are charming additions to the Ponte Vedra colony. Mr. and Mrs. Kimbrough moved here recently from Dallas, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Flanagan of Riverhead, L. I., made their annual trip to Ponte Vedra. Mr. Flanagan, who reached the finals of the New York Metropolitan Tournament three years in a row, managed to card a 70 after several practice rounds.

A party of eight enthusiasts from Providence, R. I., golfed daily while staying at The Inn. These included Mr. Robert Mulligan, Mr. Robert Connolly, Mr. Rocco De Fricio, Mr. Dan Emond, Mr. H. Devaney, Mr. Lenard Lenard, Mr. Robert Hind and Mr. John Flanagan.

Trying his skill for the first time on this challenging course Mr. Clifford W. Behrhorst, of Pittsburgh, Pa., turned in some fine scores. He is vacationing here with Mrs. Behrhorst and they made a daily foursome with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Williams, of Wexford, Pa.

Another golfer scoring consistently in the 70's was Mr. J. Stuart Brown, Jr., who vacationed here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Sewickley, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Daley, of Hudson, Mich., who come to Ponte Vedra annually, never missed a day on the links. Mr. Daley scored a 75, which will no doubt bring him back again next year determined to get a 70!

Dr. and Mrs. John Galbraith, of Glen Cove, L. I., made their first trip to Ponte Vedra and both agree that "this is it" for a perfect vacation. The Galbraiths golfed daily with Mr. and Mrs. James Headley, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Academic field was well represented at The Innlet by Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Hovde and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Wright. Dr. Hovde is president of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., and Mr. Wright is president of Smith College. Mr. A. R. Evans, of Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville, N. J., was also an Innlet guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheelock Whitney, Sr. of Wayzata, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kimball, of Cumberland Fireside, Portland, Maine, also stayed at The Innlet. The Whitneys have a special interest in Ponte Vedra, as Mr. and Mrs. Wheelock Jr., and their three children live here. They gave a large cocktail party in honor of their parents and the Kimballs.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Newberg of Birmingham, Mich., enjoyed the hospitality of The Innlet. Mr. Newberg is president of the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The National Container Corporation had a meeting at The Innlet. Participating were Mr. T. H. Gibbons, president of Hiram-Walker, and Mr. Frederick S. Upton, president of Whirlpool Corporation.

From Washington, The Innlet welcomed Admiral and Mrs. Warwick T. Brown, Lt. and Mrs. W. A. Stockdale, and Rear Admiral and Mrs. Albert Cushing Read.

A large Sunday cocktail-buffet party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leyser, honoring their guests Major and Mrs. Clay Leyser and Major and Mrs. Clifford Bresson. The Leysers and the Bressons golfed daily, and Mrs. Bresson scored an impressive 88 the first time she tried the course.

Paris in the Spring and "Foire de Paris"

MILLIONS OF VISITORS will flock to Paris this Spring to see the International Trade Fair there, May 14 to 30.

Americans, already planning to enjoy the attractions of Paris in the Spring, will find at the "Foire de Paris" an assemblage of newest products and equipment unequalled in scope among all the world's great fairs.

The Foire de Paris is an annual event—this will be the 51st. Last year four million visitors saw exhibits of products which came from forty nations. The United States alone was represented by products of more than one hundred firms.

First held in 1904, the fair has been permanently settled since 1925 at the Porte de Versailles where the fair grounds cover 125 acres, or approximately 4,840,000 square feet of beautifully landscaped park along the banks of the Seine.

Products to be seen—and appreciated—will range from the wines of France to huge exhibits of electrical equipment equally fascinating to men and women in the marvel of the wonders it can accomplish.

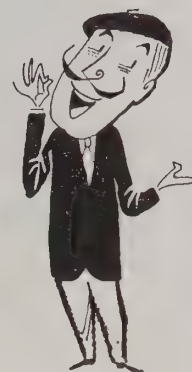

Visitors to the fair grounds will enter at the Grand Reception Hall. Along the Main Promenade, permanent buildings such as the Palais des Congres and the Grand Hall of Mechanics will house exhibits of every description.

Always attracting a throng is the enormous display of clever dolls, children's games and toys. Exhibits of office equipment offer a comprehensive survey of every type of machine developed for office efficiency by the world's leading manufacturers.

Some idea of the size of the fair may be had from incidental figures released by the group now making final preparations for the May 14 opening:

Fair employees will total 50,000; 100 miles of electrical wire, 50 miles of flooring, 90 miles of draperies, and 10 miles of signs will be used in the grounds.

J., and are frequently in New York, but for many months at a time they're likely to be found somewhere at sea. Holders of an even dozen world angling records between them, a few years ago they converted a 30-year interest in deep-sea fishing into scientific channels.

Last year they embarked on what was announced, when they left Palm Beach, as a five-year expedition for the Marine Laboratory at the University of Miami to do research on the migration, feeding habits, life cycle and other data on broadbill fish and marlin. The seven months they spent with their party in South American waters proved so rewarding, that this year they're planning on only two months off Colombia, Costa Rica and Chile.

"We really did about three years work in seven months," explained Mr. Marron at The Breakers, where he and his wife have been spending the mid-season. "I wouldn't be surprised if we didn't manage to wind up the program we had in mind this Summer."

Though both Lou and Genie Marron are expert anglers and work at rounding up specimens, they leave the scientific phases of the research to the experts who accompany them.

Mrs. Marron is literally "chief cook and bottle washer." She's an artist, and sketches and takes pictures. In addition she's writing the story of her adventures under the title of "A Fishwife's Lament" and is doing black and white drawing to illustrate it.

Her husband, who's still very active in his oil business, is head and business administrator of the expedition.

Luis Rene Rivas, associate professor of zoology at the University of Miami and research associate of the laboratory there, and Dr. Walton Smith, laboratory director, are in charge of the scientific angle.

The Marron's 40-foot cruiser, "The Explorer," equipped as a floating laboratory and workshop, is headquarters for the expedition. Confiding that as cook she has to keep her frozen foods in a small dark corner of the huge deep freeze locker for specimen fish, Mr. Marron adds: "Everything has been sacrificed to the scientific equipment we carry."

"The Explorer" was left in Panama for the winter. The Marrons fly to Newark April 1, following a few days of conference at the University of Miami. Mr. Marron plans to spend a month at his business, leaving him free to fly to Chile about May 1. Using the coastal town of Iquique as headquarters, the party will work with a rented boat in Chilean waters during May, then go on to Panama to pick up "The Explorer" for June.

Returning to this country the end of June, the Marrons will spend a few days at the University before going North. If the research job isn't completed by then, some of the scientists may use "The Explorer" for further work during August according to Mr. Marron.

Within the near future a preliminary report on the research done last year is to be released at the University.

When some of the Marrons' friends expressed surprise and pleasure at finding them in Palm Beach this winter, the couple explained they never had any idea of being gone five years. No matter how much fun they get out of the expeditions, they're sociable souls and are always glad to get back to their friends and the winter season activities.

The start of a momentous trip for little Cinderella to the land of reality and the fulfillment of a dream come true. At top Cinderella, Maria Ann McDonnell, 16-year-old orphan of St. Joseph's-Gonzaga Orphanage of Philadelphia, waves goodbye to her little friends at the orphanage. Bottom left, she is being told by Father Frederic M. Gehring, C.M., director of China House, Vincentian Missions in China, of her selection as the Cinderella of the Boca Raton Club's Second Annual Polo Ball. At bottom right, she steps aboard an airplane to wing her way to Boca Raton, where she received many presents and a four-year scholarship.

The Story of Cinderella

A real life Cinderella has made history...

FOR THE FIRST TIME in the memories of those who record spectacular social events of the era, a real orphan has been feted and honored at a real Ball . . . and met a real prince. And there were real tears in the eyes of many titled and distinguished guests when, amid the social and scenic magnificence of the Boca Raton Club's Second Annual "Polo Ball", on February 25, the tiny young brunette "Cinderella" made her appearance at the Stroke of Midnight.

Immediately winning the hearts of every royal personage, every peer and peeress of the international set, every star of stage, screen, TV and radio attending the unprecedented affair, Maria Ann McDonnell of the St. Joseph-Gonzalez Home in Philadelphia, was the demure miss chosen from candidates across the country to reign as Cinderella at the 1955 "Polo Ball". Her august "subjects" included His Royal Highness, the Duke of Windsor, the Spanish Duke del Infantado, lords and ladies, counts and countesses, baronesses, and a throng of untitled gentry (but only slightly lesser lights in the social hierarchy) whose names are known in select circles around the world.

Attired in an exquisite Hattie Carnegie gown of "Polo White" tulle with "Chukker Green" satin sash and a diamante bodice, Cinderella literally "stopped the show" of famous talent and topped the parade of lavish furs and historical jewels when she appeared on the podium, accompanied by Father Frederic Gehring, hero-chaplain of Guadalcanal. When Tony Cabot and his Boca Raton Club orchestra struck up the strains of the Cinderella Waltz and the dainty Maria Ann and her dancing partner (young poloist Len Bernard) took the first steps, Father Gehring delighted Ball guests by appearing at the orchestra microphone with a violin and playing the famous waltz theme with the feeling and technique of an accomplished musician.

General Chairman Mrs. Stephen Sanford outdid herself in the presentation of this year's "Polo Ball" extravaganza, which also included "A Night at Bradley's", the re-creation of the famous Palm Beach casino of yesteryear in the Addison Mizner Lounge of the Boca Raton Club.

Working in close collaboration with Mrs. Sanford was Boca Raton Club Executive Vice President J. Stuart Robertson, originator of the "Polo Ball", whose coordination of the many features and facets of the dazzling Ball made the night-long affair a smooth-flowing, fast paced procession of pleasurable and exciting events.

Leading off the round-the-clock festivities of "Polo Ball" day was the Inaugural Duke of Windsor Invitational Golf Tournament of which His Royal Highness was honorary chairman and in which he participated.

Tourney Chairman Christopher J. Dunphy had as his co-chairman a roster of top flight socialite golfers, including Charles G. Cushing, S. Simpson Dean, Arnold Hanger, Daniel Mahoney and J. Bradley Streit. A general committee of golf stars and members of the Seminole, Everglades, Gulf Stream, Clothed in her $800 dress and the fur coat she received as awards, Maria Ann McDonnell here is receiving a four-year scholarship to the college of her choosing from J. Stuart Robinson, executive vice-president of the Boca Raton Club. The scholarship was awarded by Food Fair Stores Foundation.

Indian Creek and La Gorce Country Clubs vied for the Tournament trophy, an antique Sheffield silver salver donated by Chairman Dunphy and won by Thomas Shevlin.

Both the golf tournament and the "Polo Ball" benefited the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

At 7:30 in the evening, the magnificent evening's entertainment began with cocktails in the green-and-white festooned Addison Mizner Lounge, where guests oh-ed and ah-ed at the long tables laden with diamonds, silverware, rare oil paintings and objects d'art . . . all prizes for the "Night at Bradley's" where Ball guests played (for gifts only) later in the evening, after purchasing their chips with handsome donations to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Dinner in the palatial Patio Royale began at 8:30. Cascades of green and white plumes and brilliants adorned the pillars of the Patio, huge artist's sketches (done in green and white) of famous polo ponies and players appeared on the walls, framed by helmets, mallets, and polo paraphernalia. At the Patio Royale entrance, two life-size polo pony heads, carved from huge blocks of ice, were banked with flowers.

No sooner had the sumptuous feast started than "Polo Ball" Chairman Mrs. Sanford was called to the dance floor dais to receive resounding acclaim for the spectacular affair. In turn, Mrs. Sanford introduced the socialite columnist of Hollywood, California, Mrs. Cobina Wright, who emceed the introduction of a stunning group of celebrities with a charming ad lib insouciance and humor which delighted the crowd and won their warm plaudits.

After the introduction and brief speeches of praise of the Ball and its worthy purpose by Merle Oberon, Sonja Henie, Vera-Ellen, Ginny Simms, Ed, "Duffy's Tavern" Gardner, and other Hollywood notables, a hush fell as the "Polo Ball" guest of honor was asked to come to the microphone.

Diminutive but superbly poised and majestically attired in a jewel-trimmed mandarin gown, Madame Wellington Koo, wife of the Ambassador from Nationalist China, made her way to the orchestra stand and spoke to the assembled guests in praise of their fund-raising efforts. During the few seconds of her quiet, beautifully articulated speech, scarcely the sound of an intaken breath was heard in the vast, high vaulted Patio Royale.

Then came a parade of stunning Cole of California models wearing lavish furs over jewel-studded bathing suits and led by the beautiful, curvaceous American mermaid, Esther Williams. Not content with modelling an 18-carat gold lined, pastel mink coat from the world renowned Northwood Mink Farms, Miss Williams literally crowned her magnificent appearance with the diamond and emerald tiara which Napoleon gave to Josephine . . . plus matching necklace, bracelets and earrings, all loaned for the occasion by the noted jewelers, Van Cleef and Arpels. When Miss Williams removed her regal wrap, a thunderous burst of applause greeted the vision of a $1,000 green and white jeweled swim suit, created and described by Fred Cole of California (who was at the mike during the entire parade of Cole fashions).

The dark beauty of the famous ballroom terpsichorean, petite Mary Raye, and her handsome partner, the suave Naldi, next enthralled "Polo Ball" guests who demanded encore after encore. Then came the lovely, lively three McGuire sisters of Arthur Godfrey show fame. Each one an accomplished chanteuse, the trio again won the hearts and plaudits of their sophisticated audience. (The McGuire sisters appeared at the '54 "Polo Ball" and are known for their selfless and untiring efforts for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund).

And then came Cinderella. Showered with gifts (which included a four-year scholarship to the college or university of her choice, given by the Food Fair Stores Foundation; a white fur coat, the gift of Benn Mandell, New York furrier; a table-load of gifts from "Polo Ball" guests—and, of course, the $800 Ball gown (designed by Hattie Carnegie) the superb, unaffected poise of this young lady was perhaps the most outstanding feature of her appearance.

Guests at the Ball had the nation's — and the continent's — top-flight photographers and columnists in an ecstatic tizzy as great names of the newspaper, magazine, radio and TV worlds mingled with great names in the worlds of fashion, finance and Affairs of State.

At the table of Mrs. Sanford and her famous polo player husband, the popular "Laddie" Sanford, were the Charles Munns, the Winston F. C. Guests, the Huntington Hartfords, the Thaddeus Suskis, Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, Mr. Dunphy and Charles G. Cushing, the "Polo Ball" Honorary Chairman Madame Koo, Mrs. Sanford's Guest of Honor, the Duke of Windsor, and the ebullient Cobina Wright and her Hollywood galaxy of famous stars; also Dr. Alfredo Banfi, Miss Merle Oberon, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rothschild (Vera-Ellen), Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gage (Esther Williams), Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gardner, Mr. Milton W. Bissett, Mrs. Leon Mandel, Mr. Jacobs, Mrs. Marshall Heminway, and continuing clockwise, Mr. Alexis Obolensky, Mrs. Bissett, Mr. Heminway, Mrs. Obolensky and Colonel Leon Mandel, partially hidden.

The Polo Ball is over for another year, but the story lingers on and is oft retold with all its glamor. Here Maria tells her little friends the story of Cinderella of 1955. She is wearing the $800 evening gown from Hattie Carnegie that was one of her awards at the Boca Raton Club Ball and has the little tots of the orphanage for an interested audience.

Design for Living: Florida Fashion

TROPICAL COLONIAL

HERE'S A CERTAIN FASCINATION about island living, even when the island is far from remote, but almost in the heart of a very social resort. Near the north end of Everglades Island all the advantages of lush vegetation, accessibility to two water fronts, and proximity to busy winter-time activity have been taken into consideration in the planning of a new home that might be termed of Tropical Colonial architecture.

This is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Blazer of Ashland, Ky., who decided after several seasons of renting to have their own Winter home in Palm Beach. Built last Summer, the house has been occupied this Winter by Mrs. Blazer, members of the family and other guests, while Mr. Blazer spends as much time there as he can possibly spare from his business.

Designed by Mr. Gustav A. Maass, Palm Beach architect, the Blazer house was planned with the view to comfortable tropical living at any time of year. The design allows a maximum of privacy, plus the fun of seeing the world go by.

The house is a long, low, one-story structure with off-white stucco walls, with slate gray shutters and a white cement flat shingled roof. The Colonial motif is emphasized in the white columned portico at the entrance. Facing west, the front facade with its small terrace overlooks the waters of Lake Worth towards the West Palm Beach lakefront drive. On the east there is a large terrace, giving on the lawn, where a child's wading pool is located. The view from this point is across Lake Worth from the east shore of the island, to the Everglades Golf course and even to County Road beyond.

As huge picture windows have been placed in the west wall of the living-room and the east side of the loggia, with only a low planter separating the two areas, the view from South Flagler Drive to County Road forms an unimpeded vista.

"It's unbelievably beautiful at night," says Mrs. Blazer, "interesting and lovely at all times." There's a hedge along the west line of the property, high enough for privacy, but low enough not to interfere with the view, but when complete isolation is desired, the ceiling-to-floor green silk tissue draperies may be drawn.

The living-room, loggia and adjacent lake terrace form the heart of the house. The north end of the loggia forms the dining-area, but a charming small breakfast room is large enough for family meals.

Despite the fact that the house does not look especially large on the outside, the rooms are very spacious and there are five bedrooms as well as a servant's room and bath over the two-car garage. At the south end, there are three bedrooms and baths, with the one on the west corner affording a beautiful lake view. The north wing, with two bedrooms and baths is used primarily for children guests. The house is air-conditioned and heated throughout.

Both tropical and traditional have been combined effectively in the decor, which was by Worrell's. In the main, pastel tones prevail, and in the living room and loggia the colors have been chosen to blend with the soft green of the walls and draperies and the off-white tray ceiling.

with a striking French Provincial mantel in hand carved walnut. There is much use of French Provincial in the furnishings, notably in the dining end of the loggia and the breakfast room. Here, a folding wooden panel slides back to separate or connect the room with the colorful, light kitchen beyond.

BELLS OF THE CATHEDRAL OF SANTO DOMINGO, CIUDAD TRUJILLO, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC. THE LARGEST OF THESE, "EL VACANTE," CAST IN 1733, IS RUNG ONLY WHEN AN ARCHBISHOP OF SANTO DOMINGO DIES. THE CATHEDRAL ITSELF DATES FROM 1523 AND CONTAINS AMONG OTHER HISTORICAL TREASURES THE MAGNIFICENT WHITE MARBLE TOMB OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, WHO "LOVED THIS LAND THE BEST."

THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

In the Twenty-Fifth Year of the Benefactor

THE SILVER-SPARKLING WATERS of the blue Caribbean beckon as never before to the eastern part of Hispaniola, "the land Columbus loved." The climate here is delightful with small variation in temperature between summer and winter. The contrast between glistening white beaches and not too distant inviting mountain retreats offers constant variety. Breezes blow from the south all day and from the north all night, giving balmy warm days and cool restful nights at any season. The soil is so fertile, the rainfall so ample that plantain, yucca, coconut, pineapple, royal palm, and other foods grow almost without attention. Fish and wild game are abundant. Here is a veritable tropical paradise.

It has been ever thus, even before the days of Columbus, but a trip to the Spanish speaking Dominican Republic never would have been so pleasant as it is today. This is a very special time—"the year of the benefactor," and marks the twenty-fifth year since Generalissimo and Doctor Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina first became the Republic's President. Every newspaper, public building, hotel, hospital, auto license, and even grocery and drug store purchases, bear the legend, "el ano del benefactor de la Patria" in tribute to the many improvements wrought by the "Big Jefe." Not the least of these, from the tourist's point of view, is the fine and inexpensive hotel system.

Americans may not be too popular in some parts of the world, but in the Dominican Republic they love us. This is in spite of the fact that, due to German encroachment in World War One, the U. S. Marines took possession of the country in 1916 and ran it for eight years. During the occupation, Trujillo, then only a lieutenant in the Dominican guard, observed the importance of a good water supply, a better postal service, adequate sewer systems, public education, sanitation, roads, bridges, harbors, paving, clean streets, public health, agricultural development, etc. Later, when he became president in 1930, he continued and even extended these marine policies.

Today the towns and cities are amazingly clean, and people are arrested if they throw trash in the streets. You can safely eat raw salads and drink the water anywhere. If a child fails to attend school, the father is sent to jail. The Dominicans are so proud of their schools, workers' neat modern houses, highways, hospitals, etc., that each one is a self-appointed tourist guide and Chamber of Commerce.

In Ciudad Trujillo, the capital city, the widest most handsome street is named Avenida Jorge Washington. A charity hospital and another street are named after a Washington doctor, William A. Morgan, of whom good looking Dominican Porfirio Carias said: "That Bill Morgan, he's not a man. He's a god!" Dr. Morgan first came to the Dominican Republic on a fishing and hunting trip in the thirties, enjoyed the climate and the people so much that he returns each winter. During these many visits the doctor has performed hundreds of free operations. In return the appreciative Dominicans built beautiful, modern William A. Morgan Hospital where patients are treated without charge.

The Director of Tourism, handsome, busy Carlos Pellerano, personally greets each new visitor to Ciudad Trujillo. This despite the fact that he's very busy with the polo team whose dynamic leader is twenty-five year old, six foot "Ramfis," eldest son of the Generalissimo. The finest polo players and best horses from all over the world collect in Ciudad Trujillo, and if polo is your passion, this is the place for you.

Every American who visits Ciudad Trujillo receives a note of welcome and an invitation from U. S. Ambassador William T. Pheiffer "to visit and make yourself right at home at YOUR Embassy." This keeps the Ambassador and his charming bride of one year (Schlitz heiress, the former Mrs. Frances Uihlein of Milwaukee and Palm Beach) quite busy, but they thoroughly enjoy people and take great pleasure in being of service to their countrymen. They're two of the grandest people you ever met, and we can be proud and happy to have such folk representing the U.S.A. Mrs. Pheiffer, a tiny attractive blond, is learning Spanish and participates most enthusiastically in all sorts of Dominican activities. Both consider the Dominican Republic a modern Shangri-la, and the Ambassador declared: "Although I've been here only twenty months, I feel as much at home as Christopher Columbus." The Ambassador was born in Amarillo, Texas, which fact probably explains why he can feel as much at home as Columbus, whose bones have rested for over four hundred years in the local historic Cathedral.

The Jaragua Hotel in Ciudad Trujillo is the center of things for Dominicans, tourists and businessmen. Here you'll meet men from the Gibbs Shipbuilding Company of Jacksonville, Florida, now engaged in building a six million dollar drydock, the only one in the Caribbean where boats can be built and repaired; men from Barium Steel interested in a new find of rich iron ore; people from the DuPont Company developing a plastic from sugar waste. Chemists, engineers, financiers, promoters pour through the doors of the Jaragua. There's a feeling of boom and excitement in the air. You might even see Flor De Oro Trujillo, the Generalissimo's attractive daughter, or her first husband, polo playing Porfirio Rubirosa.

The evenings are gay at the Jaragua. There's always dancing, a floor show and the casino for gambling. Delicious food is served on an outside terrace overlooking the excellent swimming pool, and occasionally native dishes are available. "Sancocho," a wonderful thick soup made from many kinds of meats and vegetables is very tasty. Perennial favorites are hearts of palm salad, halves of fresh sugar pineapple, huge slices of papaya mellow with native lime, baked plantain, and, for those so inclined, the very good local rum.

There are many interesting things to be seen in Ciudad Trujillo, originally a walled city, of which only sections remain due to the hurricane of 1930. What's left of the castle of Diego Columbus, Christopher's son, erected in 1510, stands overlooking the river harbor. The original plans for the building have been located recently in Spain, and shortly the dignified old structure will be completely restored. Nearby, at the water's edge, is the Ceiba tree, reputed to be the one to which Columbus chained his ships on arrival.

Twice a year, with great ceremony, the mausoleum and casket at the Cathedral are opened and the bones of Christopher Columbus can be viewed by anyone. In 1506, just before Columbus died in Spain, he requested interment in the land he loved, Santo Domingo. After the consecration of the Cathedral in 1541, the bodies of Columbus and his son,

The beautiful Cathedral in Ciudad Trujillo. Herein rest the bones of Columbus.

Diego, were received from Spain and laid to rest in the family sepulcher. Since that time Santo Domingo has passed through many hands, and several caskets said to contain the bones of Columbus have been dug up and moved various places. It would seem that his bones are more far travelled than Columbus himself. In 1877 workmen, repairing the Cathedral, uncovered the coffin of Columbus' grandson, Don Luis. Under this another casket was found, the undercover of which bore the words: "Illtre y Esto Varon Dn. Cristoval Colon," which means "Illustrious and Famous Baron Don Christopher Columbus." There were some loose screws and a plate inscribed "Cristoval Colon." Most authorities now support the Dominican claim.

The ancient caves in the thoroughly modern Zoological Garden extend for miles underground. For centuries these were the abode of the now extinct native Indians and formed an excellent, although only temporary, fortress against the Spaniards. With their springs, interesting formations, rocky amphitheaters, and fern-like carpets, these caves are an intriguing sight to see.

The huge public market, "El Mercado," with its high ceilings, white tile walls, and scrubbed stalls is filled with locally raised foods and native crafts. Here you can buy an "aparejo con argana," which is the grass saddle and basket used on the back of the ubiquitous tiny, picturesque burro. As a souvenir the burro is too big to take home, but the grass saddle and basket are perfect, and useful too, as containers for magazines, newspapers, and flowers. Many interesting roots, seeds, and herbs can be found in the market. One such is the color-filled annatto seed, long used by the Indians for war paint and the dressing of wounds. A modern chemical firm in Ciudad Trujillo now extracts twenty different vegetable dyes plus vitamin K (stops bleeding) from these seeds.

A side trip through the beautiful multi-colored countryside to the provincial town of San Cristobal, birthplace of Trujillo and the cradle of Dominican independence, is an interesting way to spend an afternoon, especially if you stop off on the way back to inspect the gigantic sugar mill that operates twenty-four hours per day during the sugar season.

The beautiful silver surf of the Caribbean breaking endlessly on Dominican coral shores is something to admire at a distance. For ocean bathing only the coral reef protected beaches are to be trusted because of ever present sharks in these waters. The most delightful of these beaches is at Boca Chica, about thirty minutes from Ciudad Trujillo. Here in Riviera-like setting, presiding over the sky blue waters of a lagoon, is one of the world's most charming tiny hotels, the Hamaca, named from a famous Indian chief. Owned and operated by Dr. Ramon Messina, a real doctor of medicine and former Ambassador to Mexico, the Hamaca is so well run that you instantly feel like a very welcome old friend. The swimming and fishing are so perfect, the food so excellent, the rates so reasonable, the decor so attractive, the weather always so ideal, that here is truly the perfect vacation spot, one to which you'll want to return year after year.

From the sandy terrace of the Hamaca, it's only a few minutes by launch (or you may swim) to tiny La Matica Island, where a very unusual tropical aquarium has been developed. Criss-crossed with canals, and stocked with sharks, barracudas, crocodiles, giant rays, and multi-colored tropical fish, the island has elevated walks from which to feed and observe these fascinating creatures. There are also many tropical birds and parrots of especially brilliant plumage. An even smaller adjoining island is inhabited by chattering monkeys that seem delighted to scratch themselves and perform tricks for the parade of human passersby.

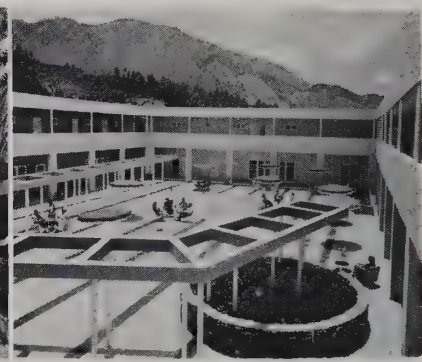

If you prefer mountains to seashore, there are two new hotels: the Montana at Jarabacoa, about 150 miles from

The Dominican Republic offers luxurious hotels and many sports attractions. Ciudad Trujillo, and the Nueva Suiza at Constanza. Both hotels have swimming pools and are in pine forests in the central mountains. Horses and guides are available for hunting and camping trips.

Worth seeing also is Santiago de los Caballeros, second largest Dominican city and located in the northern part of the island in the Cibao, a broad fertile valley called "La Vega Real" by Christopher Columbus. It was in this section that he established his second settlement, Isabella, on January 2, 1494. A year later on Santo Cerro, a hilltop overlooking the Royal Palm, Columbus and his men were overwhelmed by Indians who had set fire to a wooden cross the Spaniards had planted on the site. The cross would not burn readily. Suddenly the figure of the Virgin appeared in the smoke and the Indians withdrew in fear and awe. San Serro is now a sacred shrine with a beautiful chapel standing on the spot where the cross turned defeat into victory.

This, then, is the Dominican Republic, the land Columbus loved, a mixture of old Spanish tradition and healthy comfortable modernity. It was from the little port of Santo Domingo, capital of the New World and founded by Bartolome Columbus in 1496, that Cortez, Balboa, Pizarro, Ponce de Leon, De Soto and other Spanish adventurers set out on some of their historic expeditions. To this same Santo Domingo (now Ciudad Trujillo), in the twenty-fifth year of the benefactor, a new inducement again draws the progressive, the curious and the adventurous. In December 1955, the twenty-five million dollar international Fair for Peace and Progress will open on the shores of this azure splashed Caribbean port.

Relics of oldest America mingle with the modern in Ciudad Trujillo, capital of the Dominican Republic. LOOKING LIKE A MESSAGE FROM THE BRINY DEEP, the bottle delivered by the postman must have evoked a grin from the Barefoot Mailman in his celestial abode known as "Somewhere" — as he recalled his actually finding such messages washed ashore on his sandy route along the Atlantic . . .

Unrolling the scroll-like "message" we found a map of Card Sound with these words: "IMPORTANT: Finder of this bottle and his guests are invited to attend the Key Largo Anglers' Club Commodore's Ball and Show Boat Festival. Come in costume. You are part of the show. There will be Belles of the Glorious South . . . Faro Dealers . . . Southern Planters . . . Creole Beauties . . . River Pilots . . . Spanish Senoritas . . . Mississippi Gamblers . . . Pitchmen . . . Sheriffs . . . Cowgirls . . . Trappers . . . Indian Maids and Frontiersmen."

Held on the terrace around the club's swimming pool where a replica of a Show Boat — "Belle of Key Largo" — was "docked" to put on a show, it climaxed the annual week-long rendezvous of yachtsmen who put in there from all parts of the country and foreign waters for the skeet-shooting

Festivities got off to a start with a cocktail party hosted by Clinton Campbell, after which there was a barbecue dinner. Next evening Commodore Carmine gave a cocktail party, followed by a dinner party, after which annual fishing awards were given out. And there was the induction of Flag Officers. Dress Ship for all yachts took place on the subsequent day . . . then a chowder party . . . the Flag Officers' cocktail party and buffet dinner . . . which brings us up to the Commodore's Ball and Show Boat Festival.

Dick Reynolds, with his wife Muriel, both of whom narrowly escaped from their burning yacht recently, was appropriately costumed in what ship-wrecked-in-haste yachtsman wears . . . a coat, hat, and no trousers! The Hubert Humphreys (Humco Corp.) brought 11 guests to the party in the Humphreys' two yachts, "Humco" and "Wilda II" (the 86-foot "Humco" is often pointed out where she is docked, along MacArthur Causeway) . . . Leslie Edgecomb (Phila.) had as guests aboard his "Silver Dawn": Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hanley (he's president of Alleghaney Ludlum Steel Corp.) Logan Johnston (Armco), Mr. and Mrs. Williah Meinel, Clark King (Ludlum Steel Corp. of York, Penna.) The Robert Ingalls were there on their new yacht "Rhonda III". The Thomas Briggses (Memphis) had guests aboard "Coronet" . . . Ditto, the Ted Bakers on "Marea" . . . And Commodore and Mrs. James Carmine (he's the outgoing Commodore — but he'll go right on using that title, according to custom) were aboard their boat "Miljata" . . . New Commodore and Mrs. Steven B. Wilson had guests aboard "Fram" . . . And the James Lowell Oakes, Jr.s entertained on their beautiful "Trail" . . .

Overlooking Card Sound, Key Largo Anglers' Club, set among Australian pines, palms and bougainvillea, has the finest yacht fleet, per capita, in the world . . . $10,000,000 worth of beautiful craft lines up each year at the club docks for the above mentioned shindig, that is really a whing-ding!

Elegant rusticity best describes this peaceful (except during Commodore's Ball week!) haven for anglers . . . which consists of a plum-colored, polished log clubhouse tastefully decorated with fantastically-shaped driftwood tables with glass tops . . . an almost life-size portrait in oils

There's a smart shop that supplies anglers and their ladies with those extra sports togs, to the right as you go in . . . And to the left, a gift shop that has the most divine cocktail napkins, high-ball glasses, and objects d'art, all with nautical emblems . . . Organ music is served up while you sip cocktails. And members have only to look up along the top of the walls of the clubhouse and veranda to see their private boat signals, lined up there. The veranda off the pool has its own bar . . .

Charter Commodore was W. W. Ehrhart, of Miami, when the club opened in 1947. Its roster of 260 members "from California to Maine" sounds like a Who's Who in America's Industry and Finance . . . Roger Firestone; Benjamin Fairless (Chairman of the Board of U. S. Steel); Alton Jones (Chairman of the Board of Cities Service); K. T. Club soon, as a guest of outgoing Commodore Carmine . . . They will be cocktail party guests of Jean Lindeman in her fabulous island home nearby, reached only by boat. By the end of April 13 members of ex-President Herbert Hoover's family will have been guests at the club this season!

That heavenly voice blending Italian love songs with the soft, slow rhythm of the surf, belonged to Stefan Balarini (a younger edition of Ezio Pinza, he made his operatic debut at La Scala in Milan) who spontaneously broke into song at General and Mrs. Anton Lorenzen's party that began with cocktails in the Pool Promenade and Veranda Cafe of the Surf Club.

It was an evening of beauty . . . Beautiful night . . . A receiving line composed solely of beautiful women, which apart from the dynamic hostess, included former Governor of Wyoming and Director of the U. S. Mint, Hon. Nellie Tayloe Ross; Mrs. Robert Rea (from Palm Beach) who with her husband and a few friends will sail for Europe in the Spring, and later pick up a yacht in Istanbul and take off for the Dodecanese Islands . . . the port of Athens . . . the Holy Land, and back to Cap d'Antibes; Princess Hohenhloe, whose family chateau is in Salzburg, Austria . . . but who lives in Philadelphia when she's not wintering at the Everglades in Palm Beach; and publicity-shy Mrs. George Tayloe Ross, whose husband is Director of Interama (to the delight of all who have met them, the Rosses plan to become permanent residents of this area).

Among other guests enjoying the Lorenzens' champagne dinner, dancing, and Elizabeth Arden's fashion show were: the Frank Wades of Los Angeles; Mrs. Herbert Young; the Walter Olsons; Mrs. Anton Hulman, Sr.; the Frank Morses; Mr. and Mrs. Garvice Kincaid (whose dinner dance and floor show "Excess Baggage" given in the patio of their new home . . . wherein canines popped out of said baggage and did tight-rope stunts, while other canines held the rope tightly between their teeth, couldn't have been more entertaining!); Mr. Robert Fletcher, who flew from New York for the party; the Desmond Clarkes; Mrs. Floyd Best and her brother Rex Sanders; Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Newkirk; Mrs. Walter Sullivan, Charlotte, N. Nashville, Tenn. guests at the Sea View Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gourley. These prominent Southern socialites are annual winter colonists at the hotel where their favorite pastimes are pool and beach activities.

Winter residents at the Sea View Hotel are Mrs. C. R. Romer (left) and her mother, Mrs. Benjamin O'Shea, of New Rochelle, N. Y. Hialeah Racing Park claimed many of the afternoons of these charming ladies this season since Mrs. O'Shea's colors appeared at the famous racing track.

"dumb", for they stood on their own two feet and gave out tickets to guests that indicated at which tables they were to sit in the patio of the Surf Club (Yes, I know you're wondering why you hear mostly of parties at the Surf . . . Well, the majority of them ARE given there!)

Our tropical sky turned on its most scintillating charm . . . the moon came out . . . and the skyful of low-hanging stars looked like huge white daisies in a black meadow . . .

An orchestra played for dancing . . . Stuffed lions (but they weren't stuffy, for they came down on a plane just for the party!) and flower-filled little lambs adorned the dining tables (for eight) where conversation, as is usual at this time of year, was all about summer travel plans in the embryo stage . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Lowell Oakes, Jr., were there. Also Dr. and Mrs. D. Ward White; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fox (she's Mrs. Berry's daughter); the John Berrys;

The walls of the gaming rooms (club's dining room and lounge) where you played chemin de fer, baccarat, blackjack and roulette, were decorated with huge wheels of chance illuminated with colored lights, around which were poker hands composed of gigantic cards and painted stacks of chips . . . Behind the ace of hearts shone a red light!

When the "gamblers" lost their "million" they bought another, with a check made out to the Cancer Institute of Miami, of which the host is a Trustee. Prizes donated by friends were awarded those who finished the evening's gambol with the most "money." And WHAT prizes they were!

The James Geritys who always enter whole-heartedly into everything, donated some silver . . . Always opera-minded Mrs. August Geiger contributed a membership to the Opera Guild . . . A Console TV set was won by Edwin Wiegand who came out of the games $250,000,000 ahead! The winner of the General Electric radio was Mrs. Harry Roberts . . . Mrs. Vincent Marco, of Beverly Hills, Calif., got a beautiful red leather purse with matching umbrella in red leather case attached (VERY handy for those California "mists"! . . . Mrs. Arthur Appleton (Chicago) got a radio . . . Mrs. Earl Reed, a sterling silver service dish . . . Mrs. George Victor (daughter of the George Obrechts) fell heir to a bottle of 90-year-old Napoleon brandy! . . . and Richard Walters was delighted with the painting he won — a picture of three white orchids on a white background, done by Jane Fisher "in the simplicity of style characteristic of Chinese art" the hostess describes it (Which is about the highest compliment Jane could receive on her newly-developed talent . . . Our calls her from his office and gradiloquently accepts . . . If not, she goes off alone or with one of the many attractive bachelors of our town) Mrs. Reid has duly earned her title "clothes horse" (in which she seems to delight) for she bought out a whole fashion show recently!

Dr. Ernest Ayre, Director of the Cancer Institute of Miami, flew from New York especially for the Hands' party. Other guests were Commodore and Mrs. Ivan Thompson (he's Commodore of the Cunard Line); Mrs. Herbert Young; General and Mrs. Brady; the Leslie Buswells; Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Curtice; Mrs. C. A. Criqui, with General Townsend; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dyal; Mrs. Jane Fisher; Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Foote, Jr.; the Ribert Giffords; John Jacob Astor; Hon. and Mrs. Robert Butler; William Markey; Mr. and Mrs.

Prominent members of Pittsburgh society who have been spending the season at their apartments in the Surf Club. Left to right Mrs. Walter H. Baker and Mrs. Clifford Heinz.

apartmentful of pre-war Chinese art attests the artistic mastery of the now-unfortunate Chinese).

The serious side of this "party to end all parties" gave the Cancer Institute of Miami around $3,000 for much-needed research . . . The motto of the party printed on the ribbons of merit awarded to those who contributed to the Cancer fund, read "Quidvis recte factum quamvis humile praeclarum." Which means: Whatever is well done, however humble, is noble.

Exuberant guests sat at small tables in the patio to partake of the delicious buffet dinner — which even included that all-too-neglected viand, roast beef . . . The Desmond Clarkes were sitting with General and Mrs. Anton Lorenzen and Mrs. Claude Pepper (ex-Senator Pepper was out of town that night). At another table were the George Corriganes, Mrs. Richard Connell and Mrs. John B. Reid (Madelon Reid is almost never accompanied to parties by her husband, who says he doesn't enjoy them. So when they receive an invitation she tapes it onto his mirror, and if he decides to go he Frederick Snite; Gen. and Mrs. Ernest Scott, and at least three hundred more . . .

The hostess, looking stunning in her Simonetti gown of black chiffon covered with cascades of rhinestones (which she brought from Rome) sat at a table near the door all evening in order to greet any latecomers. After popping up and down for hours her food was cold . . . and the bar had closed! So with the last "good night" Clarence had to drive the hostess to "L'Aiglon" for a ginger beer and chicken sandwich! (They probably went in their new black-and-beige Rolls Royce with its Mulliner body—"there are only about five of these in the world" Mrs. Hand answered to our query).

The season has reached its peak . . . and soon the clubs will be closing until next year. I'd like to correct what I told you about the Surf Club's last-of-the-season party being the "Easter Lily Ball." There will be an Easter Ball the Saturday before Easter, then the Easter Sunday brunch which actually closes the Surf Club's winter season . . . It's a hectic whirl . . . But it's fun!

It was all for a good cause—preservation of St. Augustine's old Spanish Treasury, that these members of the neighboring Ponte Vedra Beach colony came to model resort fashions at a Woman's Exchange luncheon on the patio lawn of the old building. Saint Augustine

DON JOSE MARIA DE AREILZA, COUNT DE MOTRICO, and Spain's Ambassador to the United States, stopped off in St. Augustine on his way north from Palm Beach; and found it a little like coming home. With his Countess, he stepped from his airplane at the St. Augustine airport not far from where, in 1680, his ancestor Pablo de Hita Salazar stepped from a Spanish frigate to take over as governor of the Spanish colony of Florida.

As the guest of Mr. Walter B. Fraser, former State Senator and owner of the famed Fountain of Youth, His Excellency came here to see his forebear's home; and to discuss with Mr. Fraser, who restored the old mansion and turned it over to the non-profit Colonial St. Augustine, Inc., the project of refitting and refurnishing it with authentic Spanish heirlooms.

Inspecting the Governor's House, on St. George Street, Count de Motrico said, "I am really impressed by the wonderful work that has been done in the city of St. Augustine to preserve the old Spanish landmarks. It is one of the most interesting places in the United States, and I am very glad I changed the schedule of my trip back to Washington to spend some delightful hours in your city."

"Spain is very grateful to Mr. Fraser and all the American friends who have cooperated for years in the purpose of preserving the historical buildings and places in St. Augustine from disappearance. I shall be very glad to offer to Colonial St. Augustine, Inc., the help of the Spanish government to provide the Governor's House with period furnishings of the seventeenth century brought over from my country."

Before departing with the Countess, the Marquesa de

Santa Rosa del Rio, and the others of his official party, the Ambassador said, "I hope to come back to St. Augustine to inaugurate the Governor's House; and by so doing to cooperate in a friendly way to the better understanding of early American history and to increasingly better friendship between our two countries."

Preservation of the old buildings is a responsibility of many organizations in the Oldest City; and one group that has a lot of fun doing it is the Woman's Exchange, whose particular baby is the House of the Royal Treasury—originally constructed of wood in 1600, rebuilt of stone in 1690.

In order to perfectly maintain this charming example of

F. VICTOR RAHNER

His Excellency Don Jose Maria de Areilza, Count de Motrico and Spanish Ambassador to the United States (center) recently paid a St. Augustine visit to Mr. Walter B. Fraser (right), former State Senator, owner of the Fountain of Youth and president of Colonial St. Augustine, Inc. Another guest of Mr. Fraser was Dr. John Allen, president of the University of Florida, at left.

One of the Oldest City's most prominent families, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Jackson and their attractive children recently moved into their new home on Davis Shores. Dr. Jackson, formerly mayor of St. Augustine, is flanked by Jan (standing), four-year-old David, Jennifer Gray, Mrs. Jackson and Judy, a busy one-and-a-half.

Spanish colonial, which is their headquarters on old Treasury Street, the Exchange members work long hours at running their Shop and giving luncheons and teas.

The luncheons on the patio lawn are very popular; the food is excellent and there is always entertainment. Last month one luncheon featured a Guatemalan Pageant, with authentic costumes brought from Central America by Mrs. Tucker C. Gibbs.

The biggest function in the Exchange's history was the recent luncheon fashion show.

The models were members of the Ponte Vedra colony; Mrs. Jane Fayssoux had no trouble in signing up her women

A recent house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolworth Isaacs, Jr., was Mr. Frank B. Rackley, president of Jessup Steel Company, Washington, Pa., who stopped at St. Augustine enroute to a holiday at the Rio Mar Club in Vero Beach. Mr. Rackley, often called the youngest (38) president of an operating steel company, is an active member of the Young Presidents Organization, a group of men under 40 who head million dollar business firms. He is a member of the University Club, Amen Corner, and Variety Club in Pittsburgh, and the Lake Shore Club of Chicago.

← Everyone likes to "dress up." St. Augustine people are forever donning Spanish or Latin-American costumes for various events. At a recent luncheon authentic Guatemalan styles were worn by (left to right) Mrs. C. W. Walker, Mrs. Tucker Gibbs, Mrs. Anthony Thieme, Mrs. Ralph Cooper and Mrs. Charles Seymour.

friends, but admits to both bribes and trickery in obtaining male models. Once on the stage, however, they stole the show; with special audience acclaim to Mr. Byron C. Crawford, whose selling spiel among the tables went, "Shoes from Italy, trousers from London, coat from South Georgia."

Last big social event scheduled this season is the Easter Ball, to be held in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel Ponce de Leon on April 9, under the sponsorship of the Artists' Guild of St. Augustine. No one knows yet who will reign over this ball as Queen; she will be selected by a secret committee from a nominated group of seven young matrons, with the other six serving as ladies of the court.

Plans are in charge of Captain Gerald Youle, president of the Guild; Mr. Adolore J. Emling, Mrs. Wheeler Wyatt, Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Mrs. Edna Lamson, Mr. Norman MacLeisch and Mr. Todd Lindenmuth.

F. VICTOR RAHNER

Stars of the fashion show and luncheon given by the St. Augustine Woman's Exchange at the House of the Royal Treasury were Mrs. Tedi Clausen of New York and Ponte Vedra, and her little friend Roue'. Among the admiring spectators were, from the left, Judge David R. Dunham; Mr. Eugene Harrington; Captain Gerald Youle, Royal Navy (ret.); Mr. C. C. Spades, Republican national committeeman for Florida; Captain Tucker Gibbs, U.S.N. (ret.), who was host to a stag party of 20 at the outdoor lawn affair; Brig. Gen. White; and Mr. X. L. Pellicer, vice-president of the St. Augustine National Bank.

F. VICTOR RAHNER

The Governor's House on St. George Street, built by an early governor of the Spanish colony of Florida, Pablo de Hita Salazar, was paid a recent visit by one of his descendants, Count de Motrico, Spanish Ambassador to the United States. The family's coat-of-arms adorns the doorway. Plans are under way for complete authentic refitting and refurbishing of the fine old home by the Spanish government, in appreciation of St. Augustine's work in preserving landmarks of the early Spanish colonization.

Mr. John W. Griffin, executive historian of the St. Augustine Historical Society, pauses in the patio portico of the recently restored Llambias House on St. Francis Street.

The ancient dwelling was formally dedicated this winter by His Excellency Senor Fernando Berckemeyer, Peruvian Ambassador to the United States; and will soon be opened to the public as another carefully restored example of early colonial life in America.

Mr. Stuart Barnett, nationally-known restoration architect, supervised the reconstruction of the building which is now in the protective custody of the Historical Society. Purchased during the 1930's by the Carnegie Institute, the old dwelling was turned over to a board of trustees made up of prominent citizens, including Mr. Alfred Houston; Dr. A. J. Hanna of Rollins College; Mr. Herbert E. Wolfe, president of the Exchange Bank of St. Augustine; Mr. C. Ray Vinten; and Mr. X. L. Pellicer, vice-president of the St. Augustine National Bank.

Mr. Griffin, a specialist in Florida history and archeology, is a director of the Florida Historical Society and vice-president of the Eastern States Archeological Federation. With Mrs. Griffin and their four children, he came here last June from Gainesville, where he had been a member of the staff of the University of Florida.

Amateur women golfers from all over the country gathered at St. Augustine's Hotel Ponce de Leon in March for the 27th Annual Florida East Coast Championship for Women over the beautiful Ponce de Leon links. The entry list of 80 was headed by four of the best women amateurs in the country (left to right) Mrs. Grace DeMoss Smith of Miami, defending champion; Miss Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore; Miss Barbara Romack, the national amateur champion from Sacramento, California; Mrs. Marjorie Lindsay McMillen, Decatur, Illinois.

Spring days bring out bicycle riders around St. Augustine for a leisurely view of dogwood and the lovely old azalea gardens. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Molitor paused at the Hotel Ponce de Leon, where the blossoming bushes are at their colorful best.

Marlin Ahoy!

Mrs. Jacqueline Gerli of Palm Beach, winner of the 1954 White Marlin Tournament at Bimini. She caught the 89½-pound fish on three-thread line. With her is Frank Ardine, skipper of the "Sail Ahoy," on which Mrs. Gerli landed the fish. The boat and skipper are from West Palm Beach.

OFFICIAL START OF THE 1954 WHITE MARLIN TOURNAMENT. NOTE THE ISLAND OF BIMINI IN THE BACKGROUND

COME THE LATTER PART OF APRIL, the eyes of the sports fishing world will turn toward Bimini. Veteran anglers from a good part of America will head for that fabled isle, prepared and anxious to do battle with some Marlin Tournament follows in late June. Deep sea anglers usually enter both.

Last year's white marlin contest was the most thrilling affair of its kind ever staged at Bimini. Most of the honors of the greatest game fish of them all—the flashing white marlin and the mighty blue marlin.

For the past three years two separate tournaments have been staged at Bimini in honor of these two great warriors of the deep. Interest is widespread, and veterans and novices alike look forward eagerly to these events. Although both contests have an international flavor, in a sense they are predominantly "Gold Coast" affairs, inasmuch as the Florida contingent is heavily represented. The White Marlin Tournament is scheduled for the latter part of April, and the Blue went to Florida anglers and boats, despite the fact that anglers from more than half a dozen states put up the stiffest kind of competition.

To give an idea of Gold Coast representation, here are a few pertinent facts concerning the White Marlin Tournament:

The affair was staged by Victor Till of Delray Beach, president of the Bimini-Marlin-Tuna Club.

Winner of the tournament was Mrs. Jacqueline Gerli of Palm Beach. She not only won the affair hands down, she also was leader in the women's division.

Championship boat, the "Sail Ahoy," was captained and owned by Frank Ardine of Riviera Beach.

Boat that registered the most outstanding catches was the "Anytime" out of Pompano Beach, owned by Janet Garnsey and captained by Johnny Mumford.

This does not mean the Gold Coast made a clean sweep of the tournament by any means. There was plenty of competition from the north, with Joseph Kavorkian of Philadelphia putting on a Frank Merriwell finish on the final day by coming up out of nowhere and tying for first place in the men's division and second in the tournament.

He shared honors with Charles Mastronardi of New York.

Mrs. Gerli, who accomplished the most spectacular feat in the entire tournament, did not win first place easily. In fact, she had to come behind to gain it. It seems most fitting here to give a short description of what is considered one of the most remarkable angling feats ever to be accomplished in the history of the Bimini White Marlin Tournament.

Mrs. Gerli is slight and blonde — she can't weigh much over 115 pounds. On the first day of the contest she elected to use three-thread line. (Line of that strength will break if called upon to support a 10-pound weight in the air).

Late in the afternoon she got a vigorous strike. She hooked her fish, and then started her amazing battle.

The young woman from Palm Beach found she could hardly reach the deck with her feet while sitting in the fighting chair, so decided to do battle standing up.

In order to hold the rod steady, she used a "belly harness" (pardon the indelicacy, but that's what it is called).

For three hours and 15 minutes she fought a raging white marlin on that slender line. The boat pitched considerably in the swell of the ocean, which made for insecure footing.

The marlin pretty nearly didn't get boated, despite the epic struggle.

Sharks—big ones—closed in for the kill during the last half hour of the battle. The crew of the "Sail Ahoy" threw out all the bait to keep the sharks from devouring or mutilating the tiring marlin, as the nearly exhausted Jacqueline Gerli drew it slowly to the boat.

It was a close thing for a while, for it looked as if the crew would run out of bait before the fish was hauled in.

Needless to say, Mrs. Gerli's catch — it weighed 89½ pounds — was voted the outstanding accomplishment of the tournament. There was no other choice.

Even at that, the indomitable young lady was behind in the tournament before that first day was over. Charles Mastronardi had boated and released a "double" — two fish — which put him in the lead. He held it until the third day when Mrs. Gerli overhauled him with a 65½ pound fish caught on six-thread line. Mastronardi almost didn't hold on to second place, as he was tied practically at the last minute on the final day when Kevorkian, hitherto unnoticed, finished in a dead heat with him.

Mr. Till, who runs both the White and Blue Marlin Tournaments, lays great stress on releases.

In a sense, it's not so much what you do at Bimini, but how you do it. Boiled down to essentials, the lighter tackle you use, the more points you get for your fish. Fifteen-thread line is the heaviest tackle allowed in the contest. Bonus points are given for fish subdued on lighter tackle; the lighter the tackle, the more bonus points.

In the 1954 tournament, all fish released were automatically recorded as weighing 60 pounds. Fish boated scored a point a pound. However—and here's where the release angle was stressed — any angler was penalized for a marlin boated that weighed less than 60 pounds — such penalty being a point a pound.

There was one exception to this rule. An angler who had never caught a marlin before, could boat it for mounting and it would be counted in the tournament at a point per pound. This happened once, and the contender got 57 points for a 57-pound fish boated on 15-thread line.

There is some talk of eliminating the point-a-pound weight count for boated fish during the 1955 tournament in the interest of releasing more fish. However, that has not yet been decided, so as far as is known now, the rules for the annual contest this April will be pretty much the same as they were during 1954.

Although blue marlin are not sought in the April tournament, there is a special award for these fish. It's pretty hard not to catch a blue marlin sometimes while fishing for white marlin, inasmuch as both fish frequent the same waters. Even so, "blues" are more plentiful during late June at Bimini, which is why Mr. Till stages the Blue Marlin Tournament on the later dates.

Dr. Alphonzo Goff, veteran sportsman from upstate New York, caught two of the three "blues" boated during the 1954 White Marlin Tournament. He fished aboard the "Anytime" out of Pompano Beach, and used standard blue marlin tackle, heavier than allowed for tournament fish.

Landing a white marlin aboard one of the tournament boats.

Anglers from a fairly widespread section of the United States were at Bimini last April. Besides the Florida Gold Coast contingent, sportsmen and women from Delaware, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Ohio were on hand. A total of 27 boats were in the tournament representing almost the same number of anglers. In all, 17 anglers hit jack pots of varying sizes, so the batting average was quite high. A total of 19 fish counted in the tournament, with seven boated and 12 released.

At least 100 white marlin were raised, and approximately 35 to 40 of them struck. Practically nobody pulled a blank as far as actual fishing was concerned. Marlin aren't the only fish around Bimini by any means, and a goodly number of dolphin, barracuda, and one large Mako shark were boated. In all, everybody had a grand time.

A somewhat glamorous note was added by the presence of William Holden, Oscar-winning motion picture star. However, he arrived too late to enter the full tournament, so indulged in regular charter boat fishing.

As practically every angler will agree, it is almost as much fun talking over fishing experiences as having them. Every night at Club headquarters, piscatorial battles were re-lived, as sportsmen and charter boat captains gathered to swap yarns. A native band furnished lively entertainment, and until you've heard the St. Louis Blues rendered in calypso time by native Bahaman musicians, you ain't heard nothin'.

"WHERE SOCIETY SPENDS ITS EVENINGS"

Ed Sullivan, M.C. of Toast of the Town, and Julia Meade introduce New Lincoln. Monitor sets show new rear deck, new longer body, new front assembly.

Camera one! Close up! Take the new Lincoln for 1955

ED SULLIVAN and Julia Meade are waiting. Then—the show's on. And, sparkling in homes across the nation is the new, incomparably finer Lincoln for 1955.

First you notice its colorful beauty, its long sweeping lines. Then the eye rests on the smart interiors, richest and most luxurious in the fine car field.

But perhaps more exciting is the story on performance. Lincoln performance that clinched the first two places (for the third year in a row) in the large stock car division of the Pan-American Road Race in Mexico.

In these new 1955 models, you'll see

Lincoln performance further enhanced by new Turbo-Drive—biggest news in no-shift driving in almost 15 years. Here is no frustrating lag, no unpleasant jerk from one gear to the next. Here in Lincoln's Turbo-Drive is one unbroken sweep of silent power.

Turbo-Drive is especially designed and built to work in harmony with Lincoln's brand-new, high torque V-8 engine for 1955. But you must feel this action to believe it. You must try Lincoln's incredible response in every driving range from start to superhighway speeds.

Your Lincoln dealer invites you to drive a Lincoln or a Lincoln Capri. You'll know you've made a wonderful discovery the moment those wheels begin to turn.
